SENATOR KNOX SAYS LEAGUE A BETRAYAL

(By Associated Press)

Washington, March 1.—Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, formerly Secretary of State, speaking today in the Senate, assailed the proposed league of nations as striking down American constitutional principles. He suggested a new world organization which he said "would preserve the Monroe Doctrine and save America from the results of European intrigue and aggression." The constitution of the league as presented to the peace conference he said "sanctions, breeds and commands war." "Why this feverish anxiety for the adoption of this plan? Why this racing up and down the land by propagandists urging its adoption? What benefit is to come from such a sale of the country as is urged upon us? Who are the beneficiaries of this betrayal of our people?" He said that if the people of the United States desired what he termed a real league of nations to prevent war and "not merely to build a coalition to further trade or preserve and extend territorial possession" it might be secured through the formation of an international organization comprising all the nations of the world. He said the constitution of such an international coalition should formally declare war an international crime and stipulate that any nation engaging in it, except in self defense should be punished by the world as an international criminal. Among other suggestions for the constitution, he said, it should provide that the country of the two hemispheres should be called upon to enforce decrees of the international court only in their respective hemispheres. He warned especially against leaving the central powers out of the league, saying the inevitable result would be "to drive them more closely together for mutual self protection, thus making the formation of a second league of nations bidding for adherence from neutral states, almost a certainty." "Thus at no distant date," he continued, "we should have two great leagues of nations and two great camps, each preparing for a new and greater life and death struggle."

Were Carrying Explosive to Dynamite American Woolen Company's Plant at Franklin, Mass.—Twenty Dwellings and Mill Damaged By Premature Explosion --Dead Not Identified

UNITED STATES HAS SMALLEST CASUALTY LIST

(By Associated Press)

Washington, March 1.—Battle deaths during the war among all participants so far as available statistics show, were given today by Gen. March as 7,354,000. This represents only men killed in action or who died of wounds. In the list prepared by the general staff Russia led with a total of 1,700,000. Germany was second with 1,600,000 and the United States last with 50,000. Approximate figures for other nations were: France, 1,385,000; England 800,000; Italy 460,000; Turkey, 400,000; Belgium 100,000; Roumania 100,000; Serbia and Montenegro 100,000.

(By Associated Press)

Franklin, Mass., March 1.—The premature explosion last night of dynamite which the police believe was intended to destroy the Ray mill of the American Woolen Co., caused the death of four men. It became known today. Pending efforts to identify the bodies, the police held the theory that the men killed were carrying the explosive toward the mill. The explosion occurred in the rear of the mill, damaging twenty dwelling houses, the occupants of which were shaken up but suffered no serious injury. It was not until after daybreak, however, that the bodies were found, one of which was in army uniform. Police officials were understood to have made partial identification of the victims as men of foreign birth who had participated in meetings of a radical nature here recently. They would not, however, give names. Walter L. Wedger, explosive expert of the state police, after examining the scene of the explosion said that in his opinion the explosive was dynamite and the men killed were its bearers. The dropping of a stick of dynamite or some other accident he thought had caused the disaster. The Ray mill, which is only 200 feet away, was damaged slightly.

READING MATTER NEEDED FOR ENLISTED MEN

There is a great need of books and magazines at present at the naval prison and naval hospitals at the Portsmouth navy yard and contributions of reading matter from the public will be gratefully accepted at the Y. M. C. A. War Work office, Exchange building, over Portsmouth Herald office.

Secretary Bally of the Y. M. C. A. war work force is making efforts to secure a good quantity of reading matter to send to the naval prison and naval hospital and it is hoped much will be donated for this purpose.

Late magazines, good novels and books worth while are what are most needed; cheerful stories and humorous books to cheer up the sick and convalescent are the kind which are the most popular with the enlisted men. Dry reading matter, fashion books and magazines of years ago are not wanted but something worth while that the men will really enjoy reading.

Secretary Bally is today sending 32 bound books to the men of the coast guard station at the Isles of Shoals as the crews at the coast guard stations on the outlying islands would pass many lonely hours if it were not for the contributions of good reading matter.

SHATTUCK SHIP
YARD NOTES

SOME OF OUR RETURNING
SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.

Three more boys who have been honorably discharged from the service have joined the yard forces, and have been warmly welcomed back to civilian life.

Albert J. Fish, of Dorchester, Mass., who has been in the Naval Reserves since later May stationed at Montreal, is getting back home in every sense, for he was engaged in time checking for the government in the Shattuck yard at the time of his enlistment, and was warmly greeted by hundreds of employees in the veteran class, especially those who were members of the night gangs.

Mr. Fish goes into the planking department under Foreman Duncan, and is living at the hotel.

Sergeant Major Charles A. Simpson, Signal Corps of Saco, who was also a government timekeeper, working as assistant to A. L. Fish last spring has also been assigned to the fastening department, and is as happy as a lord to be back with the bunch of "old-timers" again. Simpson is heavier than when he entered the service, and certainly looks "fit."

Sergeant Simpson was at Camp Meade, Maryland, for the greater part of the fall and winter, attached to Headquarters Telegraph Battalion.

At one time Fish and Simpson were human puzzles, inasmuch as every body in the yard wondered when they slept, for in the early spring when the crews were comparatively small they checked both the night and day men, and doing the work well.

Private Chester A. Gillis, who joined the fasteners Monday, is a Manchester boy, and is just home from France, after seven months' service. Gillis joined the U. S. C. just spring and was stationed at Fort Strong for the first few weeks and went across as a member of Battery W, 55th Artillery. Private Gillis worked hard in handling the big guns and was in some lively scraps, getting a taste of what war is like just when the Hun was quit.

While new to the yard, Gillis will feel at home here, for his father, Alfred Gillis, is a night engineer and his brother, Joe Gillis, is in the time keeping department.

Private Benjamin Downing of Portsmouth, son of Capt. Henry Downing, of the guard force, was a visitor Tuesday. Private Downing who, prior to his enlistment in the U. S. C. in May, was one of the tool guards in the yard, has only recently returned from France where he was with the heavy artillery, and was in an active sector of the line when the armistice was signed. He wears the insignia "A" denoting First Army. Private Downing looks the picture of health, and is several pounds heavier than when he joined the colors.

Honor Where It Belongs.

Courts martial sentences imposed during the war are now under consideration and there is a general expectation that many, if not most, of them will be greatly reduced. Without doubt there are many cases in which such action will be proper, for there is no doubt that the sentences were often too severe. The times were exciting and in the interest of the maintenance of discipline it was necessary for the men in the ranks to understand that offenses against military regulations were a serious matter.

It is natural, and perhaps only just, now that the war is over, to review these cases and reduce such penalties as are clearly excessive but it will strike most fair-minded people that nothing should be done to place men who were convicted by court martial on a level with those who served honorably and without the least attempt to evade their duty.

The subject is under investigation by the Senate Military Committee, and at a hearing held by the committee a few days ago it was brought out that many men who were dishonorably discharged and sent to prison have already been relieved of their dishonorable discharges by revocation. This was stated by Major General Crowder, judge advocate general of the army, who also stated that the mitigation of sentences was begun before the investigation was started by the committee.

But it will strike many that this revocation of dishonorable discharges may be a questionable step, when all things are considered. Will it be just to place men whose conduct resulted in dishonorable discharge on a level with the men who honestly earned their discharges? In the years to come an honorable discharge from the army or navy will be a valuable document, both sentimentally and practically, and such a paper should be in the hands of no man who is not honestly entitled to it.

The decision to exercise leniency toward service men who incurred penalties while in the service will not be criticised, for the reason that there is a general feeling that in many cases the sentences imposed were unnecessarily severe, but it seems hardly right to revoke a dishonorable discharge and place any man who received such a discharge on an equal footing with the men who did their full duty.

If the courts martial were unduly severe at times it is no more than right that their mistakes should be corrected, but this affords no excuse for swinging too far in the other direction and virtually extending a "blanket pardon" to offenders against rules and regulations which they were in duty bound to respect. While little or no protest may be heard from honorably discharged men it is easy to understand that they will not be blind to the injustice of some of the steps that are being taken. Honor is the chief reward of those who serve their country in time of war, and especially applicable to the men who have honestly done this is the time-honored saying, "Honor to whom honor is due."

One redeeming feature has been discovered in the Bolsheviks in Russia, which is instituting a system by which everybody will be compelled to work. If this could be made to include the heads of the "government" there might be hope for Russia.

Two ex-clergymen have been arrested at Lawrence, Mass., in connection with the labor troubles, on the charge of inciting to riot. There are some clergymen in the country who come dangerously close to that offense without leaving their pulpits.

The French would like some of the German battleships to take the place of those they lost in the war. And it would seem more sensible to let them have them than to sink the vessels, as some are urging.

How fast wanes liberty in this land of the free. Some of the suffragettes arrested in Boston on the occasion of the President's visit are complaining because they were not allowed to remain in jail.

It may be said that there is not room for the Legislature to go far in making prohibition more strict in New Hampshire than it is now. Of course it might order the apple orchards chopped down.

There were more than 250,000 men in the American Secret Service during the war. What number will be necessary when prohibition goes into effect?

Will it be safe to allow even one half of one per cent of alcohol in beverages? While about it we must not forget that alcohol is alcohol.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

He Kept Him Out of War!
 (From the National Republican)
 "The Jefferson City, Mo., Capital News (Dem.) says: 'General Wood is not a fighting man, save with his tongue.' Whose fault is it that General Wood is not a fighting man in the present war, as he was in the war of '98? He is about the only illustration we have of anyone being kept out of war in accordance with the 1916 campaign slogan."

Peace First
 (From the New York Herald)
 Admitting the President's high motive and mission, it must still be maintained that peace itself should have preceded consideration of a League of Nations, and that the present strong divergences of opinion, not only among the nations concerned, but also among parties and politicians in the United States, are the outcome of President Wilson's determination to make the League a first and foremost consideration.

A Retort to Wilson's Pleasantry
 (From the Springfield Union)
 It may be of interest to state that Maj. Gen. Charles R. Edwards was in the audience in Boston, Monday, when President Wilson said: "You may be proud of the 26th Division, but I commanded the 25th Division, and see what they did under my direction!" There has not been, however, any announcement of a forthcoming book by General Edwards on "Over the Top with Wilson." And for the benefit of serious-minded contributors to the People's Forum, including prohibitionists and readers of The Union Signal, it may be well to state that this paragraph is intended as a mere pleasantry.

The Campaign Opens
 (From the New Bedford Standard, Rep., Feb. 24)
 With the arrival of President Wilson in Boston the campaign is opened, the fight is on.
 For the League of Nations?
 Bless you, not for the State election of 1919.

Mr. Wilson is not here as savior of humanity but as the leader of the Democratic party. No doubt his visit will be directed to some extent to advancing his cause of the League of Nations in the home State of the next chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, but generally speaking the Peace Conference is camouflaged to capture the State for the Democrats. This is a perfectly legitimate business, but it is well that the true inwardness of the Boston visit and the gathering of the clans, including Tammany and our own Doctor Goodwin, should be assessed at its right value.

The Democrats have come to regard Massachusetts as a doubtful State. They elected their candidate for United States Senator last fall, and Coolidge's plurality for governor was under normal. The hope is strong in the Democratic breast that next November a Democratic candidate for governor will be elected.

Hence the drive upon Boston behind the banner of world peace and the League of Nations and the Fourteen Points—except those that have been lost in the shuffle.

What Lawrence is Doing
 (From the Lawrence Telegram)
 What the city of Lawrence is doing in the way of furnishing an occasional riot or struggle with the I. W. O. or the Bolsheviks is sure to find prominent places in the newspapers of the country and consequently in the conversation of many persons who have never seen Lawrence or been within a thousand miles of Lawrence.

But what Lawrence is doing in furnishing leaders citizens to the nation, citizens who take a leading part in helping truth the future citizens and who are among the foremost of the citizens of the country in such necessary and worth while movements as the Americanization movement seldom gets mentioned.

You will hardly find a line in a Boston paper and certainly not a line in a New York paper that John J. Mahoney principal of the Lowell State Normal school, a native and a resident of Lawrence, was taking such an active part in the praiseworthy Americanization movement that he was selected to go to Chicago to talk upon Americanization before the National Education Association.

According to the Lowell papers Mr. Mahoney has been one of the main-springs of the Americanization movement in Lowell, being chairman of the Lowell committee on Americanization. He has been very active in meeting committees of different foreign societies in Lowell, interesting them and encouraging them to secure students and has given unstintingly of his time and labor to make the Americanization movement in Lowell a success.

Why We Want to War
 (From the Springfield Union, Rep.)
 Why should the President persist in holding that we entered the war only to support the great cause of democracy, for which he says the Allies were fighting? It was not the invasion of Belgium, nor the devastation of France, nor the crushing of Serbia that caused us to throw our might into the conflict; rather was it that we were in duty bound to defend our own national rights against a ruthless foe. Love of democracy played but an incidental part, and it should not be magnified out of all proportion to the real reasons that actuated us. There was no disservice surely, in refusing longer to tolerate the war that Germany was making upon us in her efforts to subdue those whom we afterwards made our Allies, and there is no reason to keep alive the fiction that we went into the war out of pure altruism. It does not accord with the slogan, "He kept us out of war," which was used so effectively for political purposes in 1916.

The League and the Presidency
 (From the Washington Post, Ind.)
 "The ratification or rejection of the League of Nations by the United States Senate will probably have a very important bearing on the selection of a nominee for President by the Republican party next year, as it may also by the Democrats," observe Joseph Gordon, of Ohio. "Former President Taft's support of the proposition may do him a great deal of good, and his judgment is that it will but it may also bring opposition to his nomination that will be fatal to his chances. No one doubts the earnestness of his espousal of the League of Nations. If he were playing politics with a view of becoming a candidate for President it is hardly probable he would be so active and vigorous in his support of the proposed League. He, with men like Senators Lodge and Borah, is every reason to believe that when it comes to choosing a candidate, for President the party will prefer some one other than the former President."

"On the other hand there appears to be little doubt that the sentiment of the great majority of the people is for the League of Nations. They believe that any step forward looking to the prevention of future wars is worthy of the most serious consideration of all nations."

"There has not been a great deal of talk out our way about candidates Senator Harding has been spoken of more prominently perhaps than others but there is some doubt in the minds of some leading Republicans as to his availability, because, as they suggested, he is not long ago, he may be regarded as having been too strongly affiliated with the reactionary element of the party."

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

The Public Forum.

The talk, or so-called lecture on Sunday, Feb. 23, was "Russia," a subject that ought to interest us at present almost as much as any European, for after all, our troops crossed the seas to fight for a cause, a principle, and that principle, if I interpret it rightly, was to protect, not always the smaller nations, but the weaker.

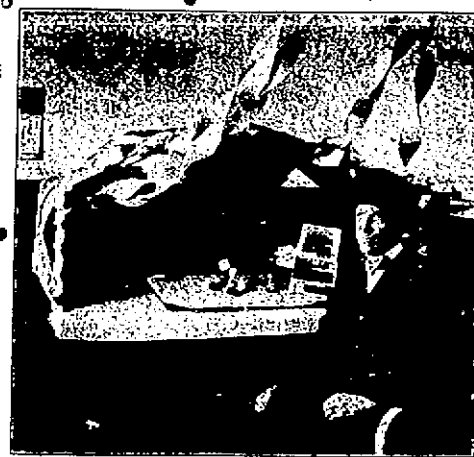

The talk upon Russia's present upheaval was pointed in those times, handled in a modest manner, rather a pleasing picture. No thoughtless, no intrusive, no politics, no German hand. A country under the old regime infested with spies upon every turn of the road has changed over night, that despicable system has disappeared like magic. The water is ice, come on in.

The speaker said: "Give them time, let them talk, it is just simply ideal, really, it is so good that we ought to try it out ourselves. Yes, wouldn't Germany like to see a state of that sort everywhere but in her own country."

Let us hope that the war is really over, but we must keep on guard. Germany has benefited by her experience but has not changed any. Her itching palm to throw something was unable to keep itself in check sufficiently long to allow her crafty propaganda to ripen.

She realized that she made a mistake, and she also learned that one may boast, misrepresent, insult, and even

NAVY YARD MASTER MACHINIST

MR. FRED F. HAYES

Our Master Machinist (Afloat), who for twenty years has been at work on the Portsmouth Navy Yard, needs no introduction for practically every one knows Mr. Fred F. Hayes. Mr. Hayes is practically a Yard-made man and he has worked on this Yard ever since the time when he first was called as a third-class machinist.

Mr. Fred F. Hayes was born in the city of Chicago, Ill., on the fourth day of May, 1871, and spent the first part of his life in Chicago. When about thirteen years of age, Mr. Hayes was sent to Portsmouth, N. H., where he was graduated from the grammar and high schools of Portsmouth, and for three years took a mechanical engineering course at the New Hampshire State College, at Durham, N. H.

On the twenty-sixth of May, 1892, Mr. Hayes was called on the Yard as a third-class machinist, and his work was so exceptionally good that he was rated up to a leading man in 1900. Showing further marked proficiency in his work, he was appointed as quartermaster in 1901. Some time in 1911, after being a quartermaster for some ten years, Mr. Hayes was appointed Master Machinist (Afloat) which appointment he still holds.

As Master Machinist (Afloat), Mr. Hayes has charge of the engine, boiler and ordnance work on ships which make their home at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. The machine and ordnance work on all submarines has been assigned as the duties of the Master Machinist (Afloat).

The maintenance and inspection of all the elevators and cranes on the Yard, as well as the machines in the shops, likewise come under the jurisdiction of Mr. Hayes.

Under Mr. Hayes' supervision forced lubrication systems were placed on numerous engines and the installations proved so highly satisfactory.

sted, but one must not throw any stones, I should not at all be surprised that for a time being, all Germans will be holding up their hands heavenward and cry out "Gott mit uns"—what an unsightly thing! should they see an American boy with a bean shooter in his hand, but one may talk and psychologically once you can get "your subject" in a favorable mood the rest is easy sailing, for the more often you mention to "your subject" the thought in question, the stronger hold it will take upon the mind, and that is a privilege German propagandists are making splendid use of in this country, and it is something we ought to watch very closely.

The chairman, introducing the speaker, let it be known that New England possesses many public forums, likely imported. However, it that a considerable amount of credit and good will have been established for the Portsmouth navy yard. Special mention should be made of the forced lubrication system which was installed on the battleship New Hampshire for the work performed was carried out in less time, at a less cost and with better workmanship than at other yards and so successfully that even the New York yard was beaten. This is indeed a record that Mr. Hayes is rightly proud of.

Mr. Hayes, when questioned by the editor as to the one big event in his life incidental to his work on this Yard stated that he thought it was "the taking of the gunboat 'Don Juan De Austria' to Detroit, Mich." It seems that the gunboat was captured from the Spanish at Manila, and sent to the Portsmouth navy yard for repairs. Mr. Hayes was ordered to take the boat to Detroit, Michigan. His crew consisted of the Michigan Naval Reserves, who were temporarily assigned. Mr. Hayes took the gunboat to Detroit via the St. Lawrence river and the Welland Canal.

The policy of our Master Machinist (Afloat) in his dealings with his employees, to use his own words, is, "to give a man a square deal as long as he proves himself white." Employees striving for increased ratings are granted the same when found duly qualified and before designated meetings of the quartermaster and leading men, coming under Mr. Hayes' jurisdiction.

As a sportsman, Mr. Hayes has few equals in this part of the country for his hobby is fishing and gunning. He claims that he has travelled nearly every foot of the Maine and New Hampshire woods, and that he rarely returns without bringing something to prove that he can fish and gun as well as work.—Life Day.

it all right, we need public forums, but we must make use of them for our own benefit. If we are civic spirited citizens and have our country's good at heart let us have forums and discuss the subjects of the day freely, fearlessly, openly, but be sure there is no screening, for a thin is a thin, be he Marxian, Spartaean, or "Spurious Permitt."

WHY NOT A LARGER PUBLIC BUILDING HERE.

Manchester is to have a $350,000 addition to her public building through the efforts of our Congressional delegation. Here we have been shouting for a small addition to our Custom house, postoffice and U. S. court building for thirty years. It is needed to house the present working force and unless Portsmouth gets busy she will lose it. Thousands of people come here during the year to do business with the Internal Revenue office and in addition there are now about a hundred employees attached to the office.

PAID TRIBUTE TO BRAVE SOLDIER

At the annual gathering and banquet of the Grand Club at the New American House in Boston on Thursday evening a splendid tribute was paid to the late Saxon C. Foss, who died from wounds received on the battlefields of France.

The young man, who was the son of Sam Walter Foss, the late popular poet, was well known in this city having passed many summers here at the Foss homestead.

Mrs. Foss has endeavored for some time to get more information in regard to her son's death but not until recently has she been able to do so. Two letters lately received have brought the desired information.

Below is an extract of a letter to Mrs. Foss from Chaplain William E. Patrick of the 33rd Infantry, A. E. F., and a former friend of the young soldier at the Somerville high school and later at Harvard College:

"Saxon C. Foss fell on Oct. 8 wounded by a machine gun bullet in the stomach. The bullet which struck him came from an unexpected quarter, although he, with the 4th platoon was engaged in 'mopping up' a machine gun nest from which there is no more dangerous task. He died the next day from his injuries."

"Although I was a native of Cambridge and later moved back there, my school days were passed in Somerville and I knew Saxon or Sam as he was more often called, at Latin school in 1906 and 1908, and later saw him at Harvard. I was told that Saxon was well liked by everyone in his outfit, his fund of humor helping his immediate friends to forget themselves and enabled them to laugh even during the most perilous times."

"As I lost one of my brothers on the field of battle in France I know something of what such a bereavement in the family circle means. The old, old story of Christ, however, has been remembered a good many thousand times. In order that other men might live more fully I have seemed necessary for many men to die. It is hard for individual families to lose a son or a brother, but if out of this darkness of the last five years, there comes the light of an enduring peace, then the sacrifice of your son and of many other mothers' sons will not have been in vain."

An extract from another recent letter to Mrs. Foss from Chaplain Joseph A. McCaffery of the 9th Infantry is as follows:

"Saxon C. Foss was wounded mortally in France in an attack made on the morning of Oct. 3 by a shell fragment. He was removed back to the hospital where he died the following day. You can feel assured that the best of care was given him both before and after death and that his grave was fittingly marked by a cross bearing his name. At the present time there are men over here engaged solely in the work of beautifying and properly keeping the graves of our dead. Certainly they richly deserved everything that can be done for them and more than it is possible to give."

"His sacrifice, great though it was, is not to be compared with yours. A mother's sacrifice of her son whom she loves so tenderly, is always by far the greatest sacrifice that can be made, yet following the example of your brave boy, who is to be numbered among America's real heroes, you will make your sacrifice, I am sure, bravely, generously and resolutely to the end."

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous cathartics do without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of purgative, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

will of God. Your son was a brave boy. By his courage and devotion to duty, he well earned the respect and admiration of his comrades. He was a true American to whom our country owes so much; to whom it owes a debt it can never repay. To you, also, Mrs. Foss, our nation is indebted, for you gave more than money, more than time, more than ease or comfort. You gave your son to our country. You gave your son—it was a glorious gift. You could not offer more, and as a true American woman, I am sure you would not wish to give less. Allow me, in conjunction with the officers and men of the Ninth Infantry to extend to you our most heartfelt sympathy. I remember your son in my prayers. God bless you."

A Man Who Will Be Well

(From the Boston Transcript)
"The convalescence of M. Clemenceau being only a matter of time and precautions, we shall publish no more bulletins," say the French premier's physicians. It would appear from the reports that we have had, that M. Clemenceau's recovery has rather been a matter of the defiance of time and precautions than of submission to them. He seems to have a system of "mini cure" of his own, and it would not be surprising if his case were thrown in the doctors' faces for a good many years to come. At the same time, there never was a good doctor who denied the singular efficacy of their own powerful wills in the healing of the ill of certain individuals. In that respect, Clemenceau is another Roosevelt. Yet Roosevelt died comparatively young, and no physician could be sure of the efficacy of even the Clemenceau will against a wound like his, at his age. Even now, the Tiger may not be entirely out of his Bois de Boulogne or Forest de St. Germain.

But the whole world will rejoice, just the same, in the extraordinary vitality that he has shown, and in the excellent prospect of his early recovery. If France stands as the sentinel of liberty, Clemenceau stands guard for France. The free peoples will be glad to their heart's core to hear his cheery "All's well!" once more.

A community sing is to be given each Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Portsmouth Service Club on Court street, beginning on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Shransky of this city, charged with Arson, in an alleged attempt to burn their shoe store on the corner of Market and Hanover streets, were given a hearing before Judge Adams in the police court Friday afternoon. It took up the greater part of the afternoon and then was continued so that more witnesses could be summoned.

County Solicitor W. H. Sleeper of Exeter prosecuted the case and the Shranskys were represented by Attorneys J. L. Mitchell and Albert R. Hatch.

The State presented a number of witnesses including Chief Woods of the Fire Department and also a former partner of Shransky. It was in evidence that there was insurance of $7500 on a $8000 stock. Several local

Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle does all his campaigning and other traveling when possible in a motor car, because he has a strong prejudice against riding in trains since a tragic experience many years ago. KINGSBURY DEFEATS LINCHY

There was a very close ten string match at the Arcade Alley on Friday evening, when Kingsbury defeated Linchey in the last box. They were all out on the ninth string and up to the last box Linchey had a little lead when Kingsbury came across with a double strike and won the match.

The score:
Kingsbury—123-91-92-104-103-85-98-126-110-125-1061.
Linchey—88-113-91-96-110-99-118-103-110-97-1035.

ENGLAND NEAR TOBACCO FAMINE.

London, Feb. 28.—London has been suffering lately from a scarcity of tobacco, notably of cigarettes. This, according to John Pearson, president of the National Union of Retail Tobaccoists, is due to the fact that the shipping control only permitted 10,000 tons of tobacco a month to come into the country, while more people smoked than formerly. There were more women smokers, he said.

Mr. Pearson declared that in a government department he knew of, "20 minutes were set aside every morning for the employees to smoke their cigarettes." Mr. Pearson found no harm in this because his tobaccoist shop was next door.

AMERICAN BALLOONS ARE DESTROYED.

Glabenz, Feb. 28.—Thirty-two American observation balloons were destroyed in the war, most of them by German aviators. One fatally resulted, the balloonist's parachute catching fire from sparks from the burning balloon. Each balloon cost $5,000, and the expense for inflation about $350 for gas.

Anti-aircraft guns used to protect observation balloons accounted for four German aviators, in each case the enemy flying machine being brought down after the aviator had set fire to the American balloon by incendiary bullets.

A GOOD BOXING CARD BOOKED

A boxing card that looks exceptionally good is booked by the Kennebunk A. C. for Freeman's hall on March 10. There are three good bouts and all should be fast enough to please all of the fans, who are anxious to support a good show.

The bill includes Hardy Bell of New Bedford and Paddy Flynn of Everett for eight rounds, these boys are both good and coming youngsters.

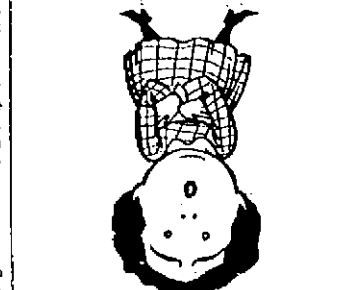

"Bunch" O'Neill of Lynn and Johnny Mario of Boston are matched for eight rounds and this promises to be a real battle.

YOKEL WILL MEET DRYDEN IN THIS CITY

Mike Yokel, the acknowledged middle weight champion wrestler, will meet Bill Dryden in this city on Wednesday March 12, according to an agreement made with Dryden on Friday in Boston.

Dryden saw the Kilons-Yokel match which went over two hours in Boston and on Friday succeeded in getting Yokel to agree to meet him in this city on that date. He demands a big guarantee, and Dryden feels justified in giving it to him confident that the fans of this section will back him up. He stated Friday night that Yokel is certainly some wrestler and attributes Kilons' staying with him so long from the fact that Yokel arrived the night before from Kansas City and was not in trim. He thinks that he can throw Kilons, and Dryden is confident that Yokel is the fastest wrestler that has ever shown in this city.

Dryden at the same time is confident that he can give the champion a real battle but realizes that he has some contract on his hands, and he will immediately begin training for the match.

Dryden has been seeking to get a match with Yokel for two years but has failed to secure a date, and he is one big man of the wrestling game that has never shown in this city.

WINTER FAIRLY MILD

If one desires to get a good idea of the ideal winter we have enjoyed this year, just note the following:

Mooshead Lake, for the first winter within the memory of the oldest inhabitant, has not frozen over sufficiently to be safe for travel.

The Great Northern Paper Company crew attempted to go down the lake from Sebecook and four horses were drowned a few hundred yards from the shore.

Most all traffic has gone over the lake in the winter, but this year it has been compelled to go around the shore.

The New Tax on Automobiles

It becomes effective the day after the President signs the bill. This tax applies to all new cars and is an increase of 2 per cent above the present tax, making 5 per cent the total on all new cars purchased. It does not, however, apply to the cars we now have in stock. We have on hand both touring cars and runabouts and as long as they last we will sell them without adding the new war tax.

The 5 per cent tax applies to tires, fittings, accessories, automobile parts, etc., that you might add to your new car or even for repairing your old car.

We, therefore, suggest you buy your new car now and save paying this increase in tax.

SAYS SON WAS NOT A DESERTER

Camp Devens, Feb. 25.—Alleging injustice in the action of a general court martial at this camp in finding his son, Herbert P. Williams, a private in the 73d Infantry headquarters company, "guilty" of desertion and sentencing him to confinement for one year and dishonorable discharge, Hugh Williams of Lawrence appealed direct to the Judge Advocate General to have the verdict set aside and restore the soldier to duty.

Affidavits supporting his contention contain the testimony that between the dates of Dec. 23 and Jan. 21, while absent from camp, Private Williams was at his own home, sleeping with his brother, who had been honorably discharged from the service. At the trial Private Williams entered a plea of being absent without leave, conviction on which charge would have resulted in either a fine or a short term in the guardhouse.

According to the affidavits, which are executed by the parents, brother and two Lawrence friends of the accused soldier, he never took off his uniform except to take it to the tailor shop to be pressed in preparation for his return to camp the next morning. He was apprehended 10 minutes later by Lawrence policemen and sent to camp.

AZORES HELPED BEAT THE HUN

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 28.—"The possession of the Azores Islands as a naval base has been a distinct factor in the Allies' victory," says Rear Admiral Herbert Omar Dunn, U. S. N., commander of that base, who recently arrived in Lisbon, where the American naval men were the heroes of the hour.

Rear Admiral Dunn was received by the new president of the Portuguese Republic, Admiral Canto e Castro, and a banquet in his honor was given at the American Legation, which was attended by representatives of all the Allied powers.

In an interview with a Senate reporter, Rear Admiral Dunn expressed his warm appreciation of Portugal's cooperation in dealing with the U-boat pest from that outpost in the Atlantic. Nothing would please the Azoreans better than to be able to pay homage to President Wilson personally. When the President embarked for Europe, Rear Admiral Dunn carried him a request that the ship might pass in view of the islands. The request was granted, and afterwards at a meeting in Paris, the President charged Rear Admiral Dunn to convey to the Portuguese people his sympathy and thanks for their friendship and cooperation with the American naval services at the Azores.

The influenza scourge has not spared Portugal's westernmost colony, and there has also been a serious shortage of food. Rear Admiral Dunn not only succeeded in obtaining some shipments of wheat from the United States but also distributed to the islanders all the available medicine from the American ships, sending the naval surgeons to visit the sick and the hospitals, and furnishing gasoline for the Red Cross ambulances. The Stars and Stripes is the most popular foreign flag in the Azores islands.

YOUNG BANDIT KILLED IN GUN BATTLE.

Mexico City, Feb. 28.—Luis Terrazas, 34, rebel "general" and adventurous grandson of the former multi-millionaire Chihuahua ranchman of the same name, has been killed in the state of Tlaxcala, while serving with the bandits of Marcelino Caraveo, according to reports received here from Puebla.

Terrazas, who was about 25 years old, is credited with being the leader in numerous sanguinary chapters of the history of modern Mexican revolts. Daring to foolhardiness, he had, on numerous occasions been in mortal peril of death and, when his body was recovered, it is said to have borne the scars of 15 wounds.

His fatal escapade was venturing alone into the village of Chelmina, where he was set upon by nearly a score of the inhabitants. He killed three before succumbing to a machine blow.

STRIKING SPINNERS AT FRANKLIN MILLS RETURN

Franklin, Feb. 28.—The spinners at the Franklin Mills, who walked out Tuesday morning, returned to work yesterday. They complained that the work was "coming bad." The trouble

A resident of East Dixfield, Me., was somewhat mystified on several occasions to find the electric light on in his stable, but one day the mystery was solved by seeing his cow reach up to the string, and upon examination it was found to be wet where she had had it in her mouth.

HOSPITALITY
ENLISTED MEN

The Women's Hospitality committee, too of the War Camp Community Service makes an endeavor to have some of the enlisted men on the ships at the yard or at the forts entertained in private homes each Sunday at dinner. Ships are left at the Army and Navy Home, the Y. M. C. A., the Portsmouth Service Club and the New Castle Service Club, on which enlisted men may write their names who wish to be Sunday dinner guests of local people or those in the suburbs. These ships are collected the last of the week and the War Camp Community Service endeavors to send them to the people who have signified their intention to act as Sunday hostesses. With each invitation the enlisted man is given a miniature paper map of the city, with a red line marking the direction to his hostess' home. An average of fourteen or more enlisted men are entertained at dinner each Sunday by this plan. One Dover resident entertains six at dinner each Sunday and several local people have two as guests each Sunday.

PLEASANT EVENT

Miss Mildram Hostess at the Teachers' Gathering.

The teachers of the Portsmouth Training school were entertained Friday evening at the Women's Building on Middle street as the guests of Miss Alice Mildram, principal of the school.

The party numbered 19 and from eight to eleven o'clock the guests were entertained with pantomimes, charades and other diversions, while dancing contributed to the pleasures of the occasion.

Refreshments of assorted cake, sherbet and candy were served until upon departure all expressed much hospitality.

BARE VIOLINS HIS SPECIALTY

Mr. George E. Bartlett of Elliot, Me., a life long resident of that town, has accomplished much to be proud of in his four score years. Among the things that Mr. Bartlett prizes most and for which he may well be proud are the wonderfully toned violins that his skillful hands have fashioned. Beautifully balanced tone qualities combined with sustained volume of tone have made these violins a prize eagerly sought by violin players.

GEORGE E. BARTLETT

Mr. Bartlett has made eleven violins and repaired many. The work of repairing a violin is the work for an artist, and Mr. Bartlett has accomplished seemingly impossible feats on broken violins, or in bringing out the richness of tone that are revealed under the touch of the master workman.

Mr. Bartlett has a cabinet of exquisite workmanship in which the violins that he has made are kept.

GIVEN TO CLASS
BY MISS MOSES

Freeman's Hall was the scene of a pretty dance last evening, the occasion being the final dancing party given by Miss Georgina Moses to her Friday evening dancing class, which is made up mostly of high school pupils.

The attendance numbered nearly 300 young people and from eight o'clock until midnight the floor was filled with merry dancers, while from the balcony parents and friends of the pupils watched the animated scene with interest.

Music was furnished by Marden's orchestra and at intermission ice cream was served. The proficiency of her pupils was a credit to Miss Moses and the event was one filled with pleasure to both pupils and their guests.

ANOTHER BRAND OF QUEER BOOZE
TAKEN BY POLICE

State Chemist Will Try to Find Out Just What It Is.

The police have made another addition to the list of drink cafes which have made the state famous since the boot dry law was put in operation.

This new brand is claimed to be a substitute for Jamaica rum and is also claimed to contain no alcohol. It has the appearance of naphthalene and carries a queer odor. The opinion is that it contains none of some kind. Anyhow, the liquid is in the hands of the state chemist and he will try to separate the constituents and find out what the latest brand contains.

THEY VISITED THE BIG 7-20-4 PLANT

Several members of the Portsmouth delegation visited the R. G. Sullivan cigar factory at Manchester on Friday and inspected the plant through the courtesy of Superintendent Keenwin. The visitors enjoyed viewing the work which goes with the make up of the famous product and especially the unexpected chorus of several hundred girls seated at machines who were rendering the latest vocal gems with excellent harmony. Musical men among the visitors on this occasion believe that more than one voice which comprised the chorus has lost its calling and should have been connected with grand opera long ago.

EFFICIENCY COUNTS.

Efficiency in any line of business is what makes one person superior to another. This is especially true in orchestras as an orchestra to play correct time and please the people must be efficient in team work as well as individually. The high efficiency of McInelly's Singing Orchestra is what has made them the leading musical organization which is coming to Portsmouth from time to time. That is also the reason why they are greeted with a capacity attendance every time they appear here. It will be pleasant news to our dancers and music lovers to know that this orchestra comes to Portsmouth, Tuesday evening, March 4th, and that they will be in just as good trim that evening to please as ever. Remember the concert starts at 8 and the dancing at 8.15.

BOOTLEGGERS
PAY BIG FINE

Total of $107.98 for Distributing Barleycorn.

The Johns are getting numerous in the municipal court. Three of them appeared there on Friday and two faced the tribunal today.

The latest arrivals were John Wrecker and John Berlingquist. They were brought in by plain clothes men for bootlegging. The first named was acting as a distributor of Barleycorn on Russell street while the other John was caught with the goods on Middle street. The court shot all the profits to pieces when they were both ordered to pay a fine of $100 and costs of $7.93 each. A jail sentence was suspended providing the fine and costs were paid. Fred Uaghe, an employee of one of the shipyards, was arrested for operating an automobile without lights, had nothing to say in his defense when the clerk read the charge. He was released on payment of costs, $6.86.
